

WORLD VET DAY SCENARIOS

5 to 7-year olds

Read one of the following scenarios out to your learners. Call volunteers up at the board and ask them to perform the scene described. Continue with the rest of the scenarios.

Scenario 1 (characters: a horse, the owner and the vet)

You are a horse. You are limping because you have stepped on a nail and it is stuck in your hoof.

You are the owner. You tell the vet that your horse is limping and not working as fast as usual.

You are the vet. You see that the horse is holding its leg up from the ground. You check the hoof and discover the nail. You use a pair of pliers to remove the nail and you put anti-septic cream on the wound to avoid infection. You tell the owner that the horse should stop working for a few days so that its wound might heal.

Scenario 2 (characters: a dog, the owner and the vet)

You are a dog. You keep scratching yourself all over your body to the point of bleeding.

You are the owner and you describe the situation to the vet.

You are the vet and you look at the dog's skin. You notice that the dog has fleas. You use a product on the dog's fur that kills all the fleas and their eggs.

Scenario 3 (characters: a donkey, the owner and the vet)

You are a donkey. You try to eat but you can't chew and you spit out your food because you have a tooth abscess.

You are the owner and you describe the situation to the vet.

You are the vet and you listen to the owner describing how the donkey behaves. You check the donkey's mouth and you realise that there is an abscess near one of its teeth. You give the donkey some antibiotics to fight the infection and anti-inflammatory to stop the pain.
